It's Your Data You Should Get Paid For It

4th BONUS – Failing Forward

Too many times we hear people say “I tried a home business before, but I failed.” The truth is, you only fail if you quit.

Failure is how we learn in life. A baby tries to talk, but fails to be understood by others. They don't quit, they keep making an effort. The same with walking, eating and many other areas of life.

If you ever dated, it's likely your first date “failed” because it did not go well, but you dated others until hopefully you found a “good one.”

In business, it's a series of “failures” but the key is to LEARN from the failure, get back at it, apply what you learned to make a better effort the next time.

John Maxwell is a NT Times Best Selling Author who has written many famous books. The bonus today will help you learn from your past failures so your efforts in our business (or any business) has a much higher likelihood of success.

Suggestion: Read 1 chapter per day either on your lunch hour or before going to bed. You'll be surprised how quickly you finish the book this way AND how much you learn from it.
